Abstract

A channel access system is described in which contention window are available for assignment to streaming ts within a The other slots are selected by the other transmitters according to tters.

5   transmit protocol.